

This lovely short video shows how current river and beck habitats can be improved by allowing a river to return to its earlier routes and reconnect with our lovely landscape to provide many ecological benefits while reducing flood dangers.

Jonny Grey, central to this work at Malham, is working with NAG and YDRT on the Nidd and its becks too!